Improving your home or just keeping it in a good state of repair can be an expensive business. When your home needs repairs, you have to be careful about whom you choose to do the work.

Certain types of home improvement are often sold by doorstep
5 salesmen. Many behave responsibly, but there are some rogues too.

Some pretend to be researchers or ‘energy consultants’ and so on, in order to get inside your front door. It’s only when they are inside that you find out that they want to sell something! Ask for some kind of identification and don’t let anyone in until you know who they represent.

10 Some pretend to be researchers or ‘energy consultants’ and so on, in order to get inside your front door. It’s only when they are inside that you find out that they want to sell something! Ask for some kind of identification and don’t let anyone in until you know who they represent.

15 Be on your guard! Don't feel obliged to buy anything you don't really want. If you are interested, get written details and a price from the salesman and compare it with other firms' estimates. And make sure you get the name and address of the salesman's head office in writing – certainly before you part with any money.

75. The phrase on the spot (line 13) could best be replaced by _____.
